To The Editor:

We the voters of Appomattox County are faced with a most important election on Nov. 3, 1970.

The citizens of Appomattox County have been most fortunate during the past 22 years by being represented in the Congress of the United States by Watkins M. Abbitt, When checking his record of voting during his term in Congress, you will find that "Conservatism" is his basis belief and conviction.

Men of Watt's integrity are hard to find in today's field of politics. I am sure that he has made some decisions that have not pleased everyone but I am further convinced that these decisions have been in the best interest of the great majority of the conservative people that live in the Fourth District.

In the same election we also have an opportunity to re-elect a great statesman to the United States Senate, Harry F. Byrd, Jr., just as Watkins Abbitt, has a conservative record of voting of which we should be proud.

Time and time again during his term in the United States Senate, Harry Byrd has spoken out and exerted his influence to perserve "Our American Way of Life".

It is my sincere belief that you and I as "True Blooded Americans" should make a concerted effort to elect members to the Congress of the United States that are vitally interested in restoring peace and order to our great country.

In any election it is the vote that counts. Go on November 3rd . . . let it be said that the citizens of Appomattox County have done their part by casting an overwhelming majority vote for Watkins Abbitt and Harry Byrd and re-electing them to another term to the Halls of Congress.

advertising and marketing promotion for dairy products and that this provision was later incorporated in general legislation now pending in Congress. Earlier Abbitt had sponsored bills restricting imports of milk and milk products which had been favored by the dairy industry. In addition, he supported the farm bill in which there were several favorable provisions relating to dairying.

'Concord Squad Plans Courses In First Aid

Standard and advanced courses in first aid will be given at the Concord Volunteer Fire Department at 7 p.m. Thursday under the sponsorship of the Campbell County Rescue Squad.

Duval Martin of the rescue squad said anyone wishing to take these courses may signify their intent by calling the Concord Volunteer Fire Department and registering.

While the courses are designed to train personnel to man an ambulance that will be stationed in the Concord area, all persons wishing to learn first aid for personal reasons are welcome to attend Martin said.

The training program will be under the instruction of Richard Shively of the Campbell County Rescue Squad and anyone desiring more information may contact Shively at the crewhall.

This course will run for 13 weeks, For further information Mr. Shively can be reached at his home phone no. 845-0780.

FAMILY HERE FOR BIRTHDAY

Mr. George Shirey, of Spout Spring, had a number of relatives and friends visiting the Shirey home Sunday to celebrate his birthday. Included were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Mendel, Charleston, W. Va. (the former Louise Shirey), Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shirey of Lynchburg and their grandchildren, Eva and Mike. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Shirey of Sherwill Community and two nephews, Eugene and Herbert Shirey.

The Pastor Speaks

USE IT OR LOSE IT

The Declaration of Independence is raised each morning and lowered every evening. Since 1951 this immortal document of our American heritage has been encased in a helium-filled glass and bronze case. This is designed to protect it from destructive oxygen. During the day time the scroll spends its time in a special shrine under armed guard at The National Archives in Washington, D.C. At night it is gently lowered by electrically operated jacks into a fire-proof, bomb-proof vault located well below the floor of the exhibition hall. No human being has tounced the document for almost two decades.

Until the Declaration of Independence began to receive such care it had become a blurred specter of what it once had been. Tears, holes, and the ever-fading effects of light had rendered the document in some instances almost illegible. When it was finally encased in the protective covering, it was a matter of either preserving the document then or losing it altogether.

We find in the spiritual realm as well that we either preserve what we have or we cease to be able to use it. The mighty warrior Samson born with supernuman strength failed to preserve the strength that he had. He went to sleep in the arms of his lover, Delilah, and awoke to find his hair cut off, and the Scriptures say, "He knew not that the Lord was departed from him." (Judges 16:20) He by electrically operated jacks failed to preserve what he had, and he lost it.

These are days of slipshod spiritual practices. For some the practice of Christianity is very casual and loose. Some make no effort to preserve their relationship with God. Some don't brighten it or build it or deepen it. The principle is that if you don't preserve it or use it you lose it.

son is our son
That's quite a claim, but in a very real sense it's true. Because none of us really lives alone. Or works alone. Or ever does anything worthwhile alone. We live here and work here. We've grown and watched your son grow. It's pretty simple really. Helping you grow helps us grow.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE POWER OF LOVE

Lesson for September 27, 1970

Background Scripture: Genesis 37 through 38; 44; John 15: 12-14.
Devotional Reading: John 10:7-18.

Jacob encountered God and his life was transformed. Jacob the Supplanter became Israel the patriarch of God's people.

That doesn't mean he never made any mistakes thereafter. He was human and, like all human beings, he made wrong judgements and decisions.

Trouble in the Family

For one thing, there was trouble in Israel's family. No wonder! He had four wives (actually two of them were concubines) and twelve children – a houseful in any man's book. You will remember that his father-in-law had tricked him into working for and marrying Leah. Jacob accepted this without rancor and proceeded to work seven more years for Rachel whom he had loved from the beginning. Even though Leah bore him his first son, she never felt really wanted in this household and Joseph, Rachel's child, clearly became his favorite.

It was obvious to everyone, Joseph got the best of everything, including that beautiful multi-colored coat. We can imagine how the other brothers felt when the "spoiled brat" walked among them with his "badge" of preferred status. It does not even seem that Joseph shared the labor which his brothers had to perform.

Of course, Joseph made matters even worse. The seventeen-year-old youth, seemingly more handsome and intelligent than the rest, was apparently aware of his advantages and flaunted them before his already-jealous brothers. How they must have despised that "spoiled brat!" How they must have bristled when he told them of his dreams in which he saw himself as superior to them!

The Violent Act

There came at last the day of reckoning for Joseph. In one violent hour his whole life was changed and his beautiful world came crashing down about him. Tensions, hatred, violence – and one brief hour can change the lives of any of us. Even minutes mixed with the wrong emotion can turn our world upside down. Many years later Joseph and his brothers stand face to face once again. They do not recognize him for Joseph has become a close associate of the Pharoah of Egypt. Because of the great talents and Joseph's skill as an administrator, virtually the whole kingdom is in his control. If ever a man desired a position in which to exact vengeance, Joseph was in it.

Yet, in the years that had separated them physically, there had been some radical changes in their family and themselves. Joseph had outgrown his haughtiness and his brothers had come to realize the immensity of their crime against him. Best of all, love seemed to have entered Israel's troubled home.

Judah had come to realize the terrible unhappiness they had caused their father in getting rid of Joseph. Realizing how he had grieved Israel, Judah forgot his jealousy and began to love his father with a love that did not demand anything in return. Though once he had resented the special love his father had shown Joseph, he now accepted without bitterness the special love Israel bestowed upon Benjamin.

Greater Love Hath No Man...

Judah cannot bear to think of the sorrow Israel will suffer if the brothers must return without Benjamin, leaving him as surety with Joseph. ". . . when he sees the lad is not with us, then . . . he will die" (Genesis 44:31). Judah forgetting himself, is caught up in concern for his father: ". . . let the lad go back with his brothers . . ." In Benjamin's place, he will stay. Such is the power of love.
